Mission Action Profile (MAP) in Mongolia

A harsh winter climate and large open spaces strongly influence life in Mongolia. Following a 70 year period of communist rule, Mongolia opened its doors to the world in 1990. A new openness to the church, and a hunger for God, has allowed the Mongolian church to grow. Despite this rapid growth, less than 1% of Mongolia's 2.7 million population is Christian.

Mennonite Church Canada Witness works in partnership with Mennonite Mission Network and other mission agencies. A variety of development programs focus on improving physical life for Mongolians. Other activities focus on strengthening the emerging church. Ministry involvements include:

- Support to seven Mennonite mission workers serving through Joint Christian Services International (JCS). Mennonite workers include Marlow and Vicky Ramsay from Langley, B.C.
- Development:
 - Agricultural projects in rural areas.
 - Business development
 - Reforestation in western Mongolia.
- Supporting the Mongolian church:
 - Education: Supporting Bible, theology and Christian leadership education at the Union Bible Training Center.
 - Development of Sunday School curriculum for the emerging Mongolian church.
- Support to JCS administration.
Marlow Ramsay serves as Director of Development for JCS.

Mennonite Church Canada Witness contributes $20,000 to support the ministries in Mongolia, including the work of Marlow and Vicky Ramsay. Your contribution is essential in carrying forth this ministry.
